

Welcome to the

AAYBA COLORADO WORLD SERIES

AAYBA COLORADO WORLD SERIES

History

- AAYBA Started in 1989
- Teams have participated in AAYBA from...
 - 46 of the 50 States
 - More than 7000 teams representing 80,000 players and coaches
- AAYBA World Series came to Colorado in 2008. With 84 teams in Attendance that year

About AAYBA

- AAYBA hosts youth World Series events in Missouri, Texas, Colorado, and Oklahoma.
- The goal is to allow kids of all playing abilities to compete on a National level for a Youth World Series title.
- The World Series is "Open" to all teams
- AAYBA "qualifies" it's participants during the initial round of play utilizing the drop-down format.

Unique Drop Down Format

- Teams are bracketed geographically for pool play
- After completing the qualifying round (round 1) seeding, all teams will be bracketed from number one to the last team based on the results on the field.
- Using a field of 32 teams as an example ... the top sixteen teams will play a one game playoff based on your seed to determine which eight teams will enter the top level of play (Platinum) and which eight will play in the second level of play (Gold).
 - This is done to insure the top seeds weren't benefited by an easy round one pool or that the lower seeds weren't hurt by a stronger than normal round one pool.
 - The exact same for the 17th-32nd teams with the top eight moving into the Silver level of play and the bottom eight entering into the Bronze level.
- Once the teams have been placed into the appropriate brackets (Platinum, Gold, Silver, & Bronze), 1st - 8th place is determined in each level.

